Government Shutdown Alert #2: FAA braces for Nationwide flight disruptions

As of Tuesday evening, October 7th, the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) is preparing for possible nationwide air traffic disruptions due to ongoing staffing shortages.

Major airports already reporting impacts include Chicago, Nashville, Houston, and Las Vegas, with delays and cancellations expected to increase in the coming days.

We recommend checking your flight status regularly and allowing extra time for travel. Our team is closely monitoring the situation and will provide updates as more information becomes available.

CTM will continue to monitor the shutdown and provide updates as applicable. Please do not hesitate to call our team should you have questions or need assistance.
