Hurricane Isaias: Potential Travel Impacts

CTM is closely monitoring Hurricane Isaias and its potential impact on travel this week.

As the storm develops, there may be disruptions to flights, airport operations, and travel plans in affected areas. We are proactively reaching out directly to travelers whose itineraries may be impacted.

Potentially Impacted Areas

The storm may affect portions of the Caribbean, Florida, the Southeast, and other areas along the projected path of the storm. Conditions and the forecast may change quickly, so we encourage travelers to monitor their flight status closely.

Travel Impact

Airlines have issued travel waivers as the storm progresses.

CTM is actively monitoring affected reservations and airline updates. When an airline provides flexibility, our team will assist with rebooking, cancellations, refunds, and other allowable changes.

If your travel plans are impacted, CTM will reach out to you directly whenever possible. Travelers should also check their airline's website or app for the latest flight status before heading to the airport.

Our team is here to help navigate changes and keep your travel plans moving as safely and smoothly as possible.
